

TOURIST SERVICE IN THE TABERNACLE

Large Attendance of Visitors at
The Services Yesterday Afternoon.

J. P. GODDARD THE SPEAKER.

Explains Many Principles of Mormonism in Comprehensive Talk of Half an Hour.

The special service for tourists in the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon, which is granted by the First Presidency on the first Sunday in every month, was attended by fully 2,000 people, among them being a number of local people. The service was delayed for about seven minutes beyond 3 o'clock, the advertised time of starting, owing to the fact that only one door was opened for the entrance of the crowd.

The musical selections by Prof. McClellan, consisting of five numbers, were greatly enjoyed. They were the "Prelude and Siciliano from Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni; Schumann's "Träumerei"; "Pilgrims' Song" of Heine; "Noddy" Every Hour, and Handel's "Largo."

The lights in front of the organ were turned on and the small ones, representing the bees around the hive with their constant flickering, attracted much attention before the music started.

The speaker was J. Percy Goddard, who gave a short but comprehensive address on the subject of Mormonism. Elder Goddard explained that the meeting was not a regular service, but a special one granted by the First Presidency of the Church on the first Sunday in every month, at which time the people meet in their wards for fast day services.

After some preliminary remarks Elder Goddard explained regarding the scriptures believed in by the Latter-day Saints, that they believe the Bible, King James translation, to be the word of God as far as it is translated correctly. It was explained also that the Latter-day Saints believe the Book of Mormon, the Doctrine and Covenants and the Pearl of Great Price to contain the word of God. The Latter-day Saints believe Joseph Smith to be a prophet of God, who ushered in a new dispensation. In other ages God chose certain men to proclaim His word. God chose the people of his day regarding the impending flood. Moses was chosen to lead Israel and to impart unto them the word of God. Another dispensation came in the days of the Messiah. Many of the people were then blinded. They said they had Moses and the prophets and refused to listen to the message of the Savior. The Latter-day Saints believe Joseph Smith to be a prophet sent of God, to introduce the truths of primitive Christianity at a time when the world was in a time of darkness. They believe that many have crept into the churches extant. Many of the Protestant churches acknowledge an apostasy since the time of Christ. There have been reformers since that time but they were not sent of God to restore that which was lost. They merely preached and taught that the old religion was the only one. They tried to believe what was right. As a result their teachings differ materially in many respects.

Elder Goddard then gave a brief sketch of the compilation and preservation of the plates of the Book of Mormon, as well as their translation and publication. He explained that the Book of Mormon, known as the Book of Mormon, "The Book," said the speaker, "is well worth your perusal, whether you believe the account given as to its origin or not. It is peculiarly the book of American scripture." By the appearance of the Angel Moroni, who made known the Book of Mormon, was fulfilled, the Latter-day Saints believe, a passage of Scripture found in Revelation, 14th chapter and 6th verse. "And I saw another angel flying through the midst of heaven having the everlasting Gospel to preach to those that dwell on the earth." etc.

Elder Goddard then read a number of verses from the first section of the Doctrine and Covenants, and spoke for a few minutes on the judgments of the last days, which are nigh.

The second advent of the Savior to live 1,000 years on the earth with the Saints was also referred to, as well as the fact that God has always warned His children before great events. That is being done now by the Latter-day Saints and the Scripture found in Matthew, 24th chapter, is being fulfilled. "And I say unto you, in the days of Noah so shall it be in the days of the coming of the Son of Man." etc.

Other passages in the same chapter were read with quotations from other parts of the Bible, showing that Christ was to appear the second time with power.

The Latter-day Saints believe it is their mission to warn the world and prepare the way for that great event, the conclusion the speaker testified of the truth of Mormonism, and called and invited these present who desired to receive a copy of the Book of Mormon, or receive any further information regarding the Mormon faith, to call at the Bureau of Information.

WEATHER IN THE WEST.
National Bulletin Shows Conditions
For Week Ending Aug. 30.

The national weekly weather bulletin for the week ending Aug. 30, gives the following conditions for the Pacific slope states:

Washington-Cheyanne: The temperature averaged nearly normal with cool weather Saturday. Some rain fell in the eastern portion of the first of the week, but over most of the state little or no rain occurred. Sunshine was abundant.

Idaho-Boise: The temperature was variable with a mean nearly two degrees below normal. Light frost occurred on the 24th. Temperatures rose to degrees above normal on the 25th. The southwestern portion was rainy. Light showers fell elsewhere.

Colorado-Denver: There was moderate to heavy rain throughout the week. Excepting in the southwestern portion sunshine was abundant. Heavy precipitation fell in the southwestern counties and moderate amounts in the middle and the north-central parts of the state, but there was a deficiency in the southeastern and extreme northwestern counties.

Utah-Salt Lake City: Temperature and sunshine were generally above normal, while precipitation was below in the northern and above in the southern portions. Partial showers or drizzles were scattered throughout the state. Irrigation water is plentiful.

Nevada-Reno: The temperature was about normal on the 24th, but averaged five degrees above normal the remainder of the week. Scattered showers occurred the middle and last of the week. The water supply in streams is sufficient. The sunbath was normal.

Washington-Seattle: Copious showers fell on the 25th and 26th in the western portion of the state, but were insufficient fully to break the drought. The week was cooler than normal, except the last two days, which were warm and clear.

Oregon-Portland: The temperature was nearly normal in all sections. The 27th was unusually cool, with frost in the eastern portion. The 28th was the warmest day of the week, with a hot, hot drying winds, and the 29th in the eastern portion. The week was practically without rain. The sunshine was normal.

California-San Francisco: The week was clear and warm, with less than the usual amount of fog on the coast. The temperature was normal along the northern coast and two degrees to five degrees above elsewhere. Sunshine was normal. Thunderstorms occurred in the southern Sierras at the close of the week. Abnormal warm weather was experienced in the southern portion of the state Sunday. The prevailing winds were from the northwest.

THROWN FROM WAGON.

Fireman Lloyd Victim of Accident Due To Lack of Warning Lights.

William Lloyd, a member of the fire department, had a narrow escape from serious and perhaps fatal injury last night by being hurled from a horse wagon when the latter collided with a pile of building rock.

The department was responding to a call sent in from 254 north Center street. While driving along Center toward Fourth North street, the horses and wagon plunged into the pile of rock standing in front of the residence of W. H. Bywater in north Center between Third and Fourth North streets. Owing to the darkness and the failure of proper warning lights being placed around the street obstruction the driver of the wagon was unable to see it until the horses had crashed into it. Lloyd was hurled from the wagon and almost under the wheels. His injuries consisted of a badly wrenched right arm and hand and several bruises about the body. The other men on the wagon were badly shaken up and the horses injured about the legs.

NEW OFFICERS COMING.

Adjutant and Mrs. J. Braun, who will succeed Capt. and Mrs. Carl A. Soderholm in charge of the local Salvation Army, are expected to arrive from Seattle either tonight or tomorrow to assume their new duties. Adjutant and Mrs. Braun are widely known throughout the northwest for their efficient work.

William Johnson, a "Shark" in Equipment Examination, Will Go Over Local Stations.

A committee of five engineers will begin at once a thorough investigation of all the conditions surrounding Salt Lake's firefighting ability and its protection against conflagration loss, for the purpose of submitting a complete report on the matter to the national board of fire underwriters, 135 William street, New York City.

The committee, the members of which are all experts, consists of Charles H. Lum, engineer in charge; Clarence Goldsmith, hydraulic engineer; William M. Johnson, fire department equipment and apparatus expert; T. C. B. Smith, structural work and buildings; and O. G. Rogers, assistant to Engineer Lum in the work of general inspection and supervision.

To assist the committee in its work, Mayor Bransford has written letters to the heads of the city departments, asking that they give the committee such assistance as may be needed. Every detail of Salt Lake's protection against fire will be gone into, including the water supply and power, the apparatus for fighting fire, the manner of the alarm system, the construction of buildings, etc.

The national board of fire underwriters consists of 124 presidents of the

OPENING SERVICE LARGELY ATTENDED

New Chapel of Twelfth-Thirteenth Ward Formally Opened.

ERECTED AT COST OF $50,000.

It is An Impressive Structure Designed To Accommodate Various Organizations.

The opening of new Twelfth-Thirteenth ward meetinghouse last night was attended by a large number of people from all parts of Ensign stake, and from other parts of the city. Long before the time for starting a stream of people was to be seen wending its way in the direction of the splendid edifice and at 8:20 people were able to find seats with difficulty in spite of the assistance given by the ushers. When the opening hymn was announced a number of people were standing at the south end unable to gain admission, and many of them stood through all of the long service, lasting from 8:30 to 8:55.

The building, which is one of the most elaborately built meetinghouses of the Church, stands in Second South, between Third and Fourth East streets. It will cost when entirely completed $50,000, which, with the investment of $10,000 in the ground, represents a total cost of $60,000.

In addition to the fine main hall finished in white, with stained wood beams across the ceiling, the building is properly equipped with the necessary class rooms for Sabbath school, a room for the Relief society, a large assembly hall, and other accessories. The floor of the main hall is raised as it recedes from the stand, thus affording a good view of the stand from the rear seats. The room is lighted by seven clusters of tungsten lamps which depend from the ceiling, as well as 12 side lamps. The choir is located in a large alcove immediately back of the stand. The hall is entered by two doors leading from a large vestibule, and on either side are doors leading into open corridors extending to the rear of the building.

Those present on the stand last night included President Joseph F. Smith, President John R. Winder, Reed Smoot of the Council of Twelve, Elders of the First Council of Seventy, Richard W. Young, president of Ensign stake; Joseph S. Wells and John M. Knight, his counselors, and members of the high council of the stake. In addition to the bishopric and prominent members of the ward.

The musical numbers were excellent and called forth a number of favorable comments on the choir. Among the selections was "Sweet Is Thy Peace," the music of which was composed by C. H. Thomas and inscribed to Bishop F. B. Platt. The solo part was sung by Miss Edith Grant.

President John R. Winder was the first speaker, and in a few words he referred to the fact that he became a member of the Twelfth ward 37 years ago at which time he was made first counselor to Bishop Hardy. In those days they used to meet in the old rock building, which was then considered a very good structure, and enjoy themselves. Most of the old faces have gone. He felt thankful for the mercy of God by which his days had been extended so that he was able to meet with the people of the ward again in their new meetinghouse. "I hope you will all be impressed with the beauty of the place and attend your meetings. I have now living in the ward about 20 children and grandchildren, and I say to them and to all who are present, attend your meetings, sustain the authorities and help to advance the ward."

PRESIDENT JOHN R. WINDER.

After congratulating the people on the possession of such a fine edifice, President Joseph F. Smith delivered a very impressive and instructive address in which he referred to the great mission of the Prophet Joseph Smith, and his teachings, and the necessity of everyone to refrain from stealing, bearing false witness, blasphemy and sins of all kinds. He also spoke of the disposition of many young people to make light of sacred things, as asking the blessing on the fool, prayer, etc. President Smith also spoke strongly in regard to the young people of Zion being married by the authority of the priesthood in the temple of God. The address was listened to with rapt attention by all present.

President R. W. Young of Ensign stake congratulated the people on what had been done in the erection of such a beautiful house, etc., needed by the ward. He felt that the bishopric and others who had charge of it had done well. He then contrasted such results which spring from the organization of God has revealed, with the ideas in the world that a man can be good without belonging to any church, or to any of the great religions of the world. Elder Reed Smoot was glad to see such edifices being erected and he felt that the people are growing in power. He spoke of the efficiency of prayer, and narrated several incidents from his experience, at home and abroad, to show the influence of the correct training of children in this respect.

After a few words by Bishop Platt, inviting all the people to turn out Monday evening at 7:30, for an evening of enjoyment, and to send the children to the hall Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, as preparation had been made for their entertainment, the services were brought to a close by the choir singing "The Millennium," also composed by Elder C. J. Thomas.

largest fire insurance companies of the United States, and it has begun a campaign looking to the bringing about of such conditions as will minimize the fire risk in the cities. In speaking of the work of preparing the report on Salt Lake, Mr. Lum said:

"We will start to work at once in Salt Lake. Just how long it will take I do not know, but we expect to be here at least a month. In some cities the heads of departments refuse to give us information or allow us free access to their work until they learn of the beneficial results they obtain without spending a cent for it. Mayor Bransford granted us this right today, and wrote a letter addressed to the heads of the several city departments to give us all the information desired and to aid us as much as possible in our work."

"From long experience we know about what information we want, and will get after it at once. The mayor's letter will aid us much in our work. Maps of the distributing system of Salt Lake, tests of hydrants and apparatus will be made, and a thorough inspection of the present system and the water supply will form a part of our report. The fire department and fire alarm system will, of course, constitute an important part of the report. The general construction of buildings will be investigated into, and the appliances for fighting fire that each building has installed. Materials used in the business blocks will also have to be known. Improvements which would be a benefit to Salt Lake will be suggested by our report, and those departments which show the best results will also be named. Our work is for the purpose of helping the cities, as much as possible, in bettering their fire conditions. It will also be of inestimable advantage to the business men of the city, as these are the men benefited when a fire risk is reduced, and the rating is made more favorable."

WASATCH FOREST IS IN GOOD CONDITION

Planting Inspector Returns With Report of Great Success in Nursery.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 6.—James M. Petheroff, planting inspector of forest service district No. 4, has returned to Ogden after an inspection trip of the Wasatch nursery. He reports that the results of broadcast sowing, direct sowing in spots, and field planting of different species, on the tracts best suited to each method, have been successful. This is in part attributed to the frequent storms during this month. He also states that the nursery has never been in such excellent condition.

A conservative inventory of the stock on hand at this time shows that there are 2,162,000 1-year seedlings, 525,700 2-year seedlings and 291,352 transplants—a total of 2,979,052 plants. Of these, 105,300 will be ready for field planting the coming fall. Plans for the disposal of this stock have been drawn up.

Two days after the return of Mr. Higgins from his joyous wedding trip, the solicitor of the life insurance company mentioned sought him with a view of having him take out a reasonable amount of insurance. The subject was one that instantly appealed to Mr. Higgins as vitally necessary; one that he had given much thought, and one that he purposed putting in force very soon, but, just having returned from his wedding trip, and having expended considerable means in visiting some apartments, with similar things in contemplation, he felt the necessity of putting it off until some time later in the year. Then it was, fortunately, that the experience and forceful arguments of the company's solicitor, after urging Mr. Higgins to realize the wisdom of timely action, convinced him of the force of the matter. "That there is no time like the present" and "to do it now"—and happily he did. It was but a little more than one month between the time the insurance was requested, the policy delivered, and the bright young life was crushed out. The happening of the sad affair in our midst made it all the more noticeable and regrettable, but there are hundreds of similar cases occurring throughout the world every year, but how few always attend to so helpful and so useful results.

Too frequently procrastination proves the veritable thief of time to those who lean on the bread-winner.

important a matter, happily he was induced to make application for the protection at once.

Truly the illustration of what may come of postponing the doing of needful things was never more striking than in this instance.

Out of my great sorrow and bereavement, I tender you this most expressive of genuine gratitude.

(Signed) CAROLYN H. HIGGINS.

The foregoing expressions from the widow of the late Corydon W. Higgins, who recently met so untimely and tragic a death in this city, sets forth in a beautiful, womanly way, sentiments of unquestioned truth, revealing a lofty nature.

Endowed as she is with a tremendous sorrow that has come into her young life; clinging with great tenderness and tenacity to the memory of her husband and his gentleness and devotion, she has the courage to express her gratitude for the opportune aid that has come to her in need of the trials of life—the aid that so frequently comes to the rescue of the widow and the orphan—the insurance aid.

The unusually sad death of Corydon Higgins, who was killed in Salt Lake, and so universally admired and esteemed for his sterling qualities of manhood, furnishes more than an ordinary apt illustration of the uncertainties of life, and the unanswerable argument of throwing protection around the dear dependent ones.

The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of Newark, New Jersey.

Dear Sir:—I very gratefully acknowledge the receipt of your company's check, for an installment of $2,970.73, of the policy on my husband's life, taken out by him in the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company of Newark, New Jersey, some time early in July.

Stricken as I am with grief, and with little care or interest in passing events, I am nevertheless deeply sensible of your company's extreme promptness in my case. While I have been so preoccupied as to be but partly conscious of my surroundings or occurrences, I have been informed that it has been but nine days since the papers and proofs were sent east, and the check was issued.

I am impelled to express my heartfelt appreciation of the good judgment shown by your representative, Mr. H. C. Brownlee, in the matter of inducing my husband to take out such a beautiful house, etc., needed by the ward. He felt that the bishopric and others who had charge of it had done well. He then contrasted such results which spring from the organization of God has revealed, with the ideas in the world that a man can be good without belonging to any church, or to any of the great religions of the world.
